— Expansion —

$20,000 Building for Grocery on Dolores St.

WITHIN a few days ground will be broken for a new $20,000 home for Nielsen Brothers' grocery, Market Del Mar, to rise on the site now occupied by Lucca's restaurant and the Triangle Realty Company. That building will be moved away, and the owner, Grant Willis, will erect an attractive Spanish-type structure to allow for expansion by the grocery firm, now occupying the building next door to the south.

The new store will have a floor area of 42 by 70 feet. The interior plan is now being drawn along lines suggested by a merchandising expert, to allow for most attractive display, and most efficient service. The building will be of reinforced concrete throughout; the external design will be in many respects unique, in conformity with the tenants' desire for a structure worthy of Carmel. Guy Koepp is the architect.

The new shop will have the first elevator in Carmel. It will be at the rear, where all deliveries will be made, as the store has the advantage of Carmel's one and only alley. The electric freight elevator will carry merchandise to a large basement, where perishables will be stored in a huge "walk-in" refrigerator.

Also on the lower floor will be an attractively appointed "Spanish wine cellar" where casks of wine will be stored at a cool, even temperature, and where customers may go to make their selections. A graceful stairway will lead to this room from the upper floor, the floor will be paved with stone, and heavy hand-hewn furniture will contribute to the proper atmosphere.

Harold and Walter Nielsen have been residents of Carmel for 12 years and have been in business together at their present location for five. They have taken a respected place among the younger business men of the community, and have an active interest in all civic affairs. Among the business men they can be counted upon for intelligent concern for the preservation of the "real Carmel." Harold, the older of the brothers, is president of the Carmel Business Association.

Rainfall This Year Is Above Average

This is another above-the-average year for rainfall. At the height of the rainy season, the total thus far is within three inches of the normal 16 inches for the entire season. Up to 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, the total was 13.86, while the total last year at this time beat that by only .71. And last year was a "maximum season."

Rainfall readings for the week were as follows: Friday, .09; Saturday, 1.03; Sunday, .35; Tuesday, 1.06; Wednesday, .43. Total for the season, 13.86; total last year at this time, 14.57.

EIGHTH GRADE MOTHERS

A meeting of Sunset school eighth grade mothers will be held next Thursday, Feb. 27, at 5:30 in room 4B, to discuss graduation costumes.

CITY OFFICE SEEKERS FILE PAPER EARLY

THE pot of local politics has begun to bubble in earnest, as with the arrival of Feb. 14, the first date on which candidates for the city election in April could file nomination papers, a number of early birds entered the field. The first to announce himself as candidate for one of the two positions which will be open on the city council, was Ernest Aldrich, whose detailed announcement appears elsewhere in this paper.

The terms of John Catlin and Dr. Raymond E. Brownell will expire in April. Dr. Brownell, a councilman of about a year, is filling out the unexpired portion of the term of Robert A. Norton, who resigned from the council early in 1935 to become chief of police. Mr. Catlin was elected to the council in 1932. Neither of the two incumbents has yet announced whether he will be a candidate for re-election.

A contest has already developed around the office of city treasurer. To date three candidates have filed: Miss Helen Parkes, one-time member of the city council, Ira D. Taylor, agent of the Railway Express

— On the Job —

Work Resumed on Project at Beach

With a crew of seven men on the job, work was resumed Tuesday morning on Carmel's long-idle beach erosion project, the building of a cobblestone curb and gutter along the outer edge of Scenic Drive. Under SERA the work was carried from the southern city limits to within a few blocks of the north end of Scenic.

Major W. H. Landers, county WPA manager, appeared at the city council meeting last Thursday evening to explain that resumption of the project had been delayed in accordance with what he believed to be good engineering practice. For a number of weeks, he said, he had had "right in his pocket" authorization to proceed with the project, but had not done so because such Carmel men as were on WPA rolls were being used elsewhere. Most Carmel clients, he said, are either artists or women, and those available for masonry had been assigned to other jobs until such time as weather conditions made more practicable the resumption of the curb-and-gutter work.

But if Carmel was upset at the delay in the project, he said, the work could be started at once. The council was willing to leave the matter to Major Landers' best judgment. The result was that the crew started work Tuesday morning.

VOTE "YES" FOR FIREHOUSE BONDS MARCH 3

IF FIRE were to destroy the present firehouse and its contents, it would mean considerable more of a loss to the city than a leaky shed. It would mean considerably more than the loss of expensive firefighting apparatus. It would mean that Carmel would be without fire protection of any kind for a period of months. Figure yourself what that would mean in insurance rates.

Buying a fire engine is not a matter of walking into a display room with a pocket full of money and saying "I'll take that one." Fire engines are built to specification, and from 12 to 15 manufacturers have special orders to fill before the completed product is delivered. When Carmel bought the big engine now in service, the order was given in September; it was a "rush" job, and the manufacturers were proud that they were able to deliver it so quickly—at the end of December.

The pump, for instance, comes from a factory making pumps only, after the city has decided which of the three types of pumps it prefers. The pump factory does not even make the "power take-off," which transfers the power from the engine to the pump, that comes from still another shop. No two pumps will take the same "power"; it has to be made to definite specifications. One firm makes hose, but the nozzle comes from a different place. A fire engine is required to have a gravity feed tank, not the standard vacuum feed type which most automotive vehicles now carry. That means another special order. Geared to the engine is a "tachometer," which indicates the engine's "revs" per minute, and helps the operator gauge the amount and pressure of the water—that comes from an airplane factory. The special booster pump, providing 80 gallons of water under tremendous pressure for emergency use, is another special order. Ladders, axes, and other incidental equipment, all have to be purchased separately, item by item, most of them made to specifications. The chassis and engine of the truck are practically all that are "standard" and can be bought in a hurry. Last but not least is the final painting and lettering, without which the job cannot be complete.

So it is no mere matter of idle vanity, of civic pride, that says "We must have fireproof quarters for the fire department." Destruction of the fire engine and the salvage wagon would leave Carmel for months at the mercy of the fire demon. It is a chance we have taken for too long. You know what they say about tempting Providence.

Vote YES for the firehouse bonds on March 3.

Musicians Given Auditions Here for County's WPA Music Project

FIRST steps in organizing a Federal Music Project for Monterey county were taken Monday, when a group of about 15 applicants were auditioned at the Girl Scout House in Carmel. A greater number of musicians had made preliminary applications, but as the plans were made for the audition immediately after the week-end visit of James N. Parsons, the district Music Project supervisor from Santa Barbara, not all applicants could be notified in time for the Monday audition. An opportunity will be given later for others to demonstrate their talents, according to Miss Dene Denny, supervisor of the county-wide project.

Unity Hall, on Dolores, will be headquarters for the project, where the musicians will spend four and a half hours a day, five days a week, rehearsing, studying and building up repertoire, in return for security wages. The wage will also cover future possible public appearances, which will not be of such nature as to offer competition, in any way, to non-relief musicians.

Excellent possibilities for the project were discovered in the Monday audition. There was a group of native Monterey county Spanish musicians, with a repertoire of little known folk-music; a singer of folk songs, and a number of players of band and orchestral instruments, among them several unemployed union musicians, who have devoted their entire professional lives to music. These players were formed into an impromptu orchestra and were asked to read at sight from the only available score, arranged for piano only. The manner in which they responded to this test indicated that they will form a valuable nucleus for a novelty orchestra or band.

Mr. Parsons met Saturday morning with Miss Denny and the local project's advisory board at Margaret Lial's studio in Monterey, for a discussion of policy and plans. Members of the board are Dr. R. A. Kock, Mrs. Katharine MacFarland Howe, L. E. M. Cosmey, Thelma B. Miller and Margaret Lial.

The Carmel city council passed a resolution endorsing the project at its meeting last Thursday evening. At that time Miss Denny withdrew a previous request that the council sponsor the project to the extent of providing rehearsal headquarters. Provision is made in the project for payment of rent.

FRISTRAMS SELL HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fristram have sold their home on North Monte Verde, and the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Austin James of Carmel and Pasadena will make it their local home. The Fristrams will go to Marin county to reside. Mr. Fristram is one of the Carmel artists, a member of the Art association and frequent exhibitor in the monthly shows.

E. Guy Ryker is acting as city attorney during the month's leave of absence of City Attorney Argyll Campbell.

Bardarson Speaks at Principals' Meet

Otto W. Bardarson, superintendent of Sunset school district, attended a conference of elementary principals and district superintendents of the bay region Saturday at Fairmont hotel in San Francisco. He was one of the speakers at the luncheon session, bringing greetings from the California Elementary School Principals' association of which he is president.

Two panel programs were presented during the morning session, the first on "What Constitutes a Good Reading Program?" the second on "Trends in Curriculum Development."

company—he was the first of all candidates to enter the field, on Feb. 14—and Walter Gaddum, retired. Barnett Segal, incumbent, has not indicated whether he will be a candidate for reelection.

Miss Saldee Van Brower, for 16 years city clerk of Carmel, announced informally this week that she will be a candidate to succeed herself.

Two councilmen, a treasurer and a city clerk to be elected April 14, and unless you register before March 26, you will miss out on all the fun.

The Pine Cone invites all aspirants to announce their candidacy through the columns of the paper. It is suggested that definite platforms be outlined which will give voters a fair opportunity to select those best suited to guide the destinies of Carmel.

Kuster Requests Flood-Light for Filmarte; Gutter and Curb Asked

REFERRED to Councilman John Catlin as commissioner of lights was a request by Edward Kuster, theater owner, for permission to install, at his own expense, a flood-light high over the street immediately in front of his Filmarte theater on Monte Verde. Mr. Kuster appeared at the council meeting last Thursday evening, following the reading of letters from him on this and other subjects, to explain further the need for illumination which would assist his patrons to find their way safely to the theater. He also requested that the city install street lights on the dark corners at each end of the theater block.

At Mayor Thoburn's instant objection to more lights as "too much like a city," Mr. Kuster retorted that Carmel is growing too fast to make creditable such "grim determination to be quaint," and expressed the hope that the city fathers would not wait until rape or murder forced their hands, to provide proper illumination for the safety of citizens.

The city was also requested to install curb and gutter on the east side of Casanova, the block on which fronts the Green Room, also owned by Kuster, and connected by passages with the theater on Monte Verde. The sidewalk once installed before the Green Room has fallen into a sad state of disrepair, it is high above the road level and time and elements have made foot travel to the Green Room, particularly at night, a hazardous matter, Mr. Kuster pointed out. This request was not answered.

Mr. Kuster asked permission to restore to certain downtown buildings the advertising boards which he removed several months ago at the request of the police. Since other advertisers have continued to use such devices, he asked that he be not discriminated against. He was told that the council has no power to give him an illegal permission, but it was indicated that the authorities might "look the other way" if he also violated a law which is being generally violated.

Sunset School Art Tours Whole County

For the past two months a traveling exhibit of Sunset school art has been making the rounds through the rural schools of Monterey county, fostered by Mrs. Elmarie Dyke in order to show what can be done by elementary school children in the way of art expression. The exhibit has aroused so much interest that Miss Anna Marie Baer, instructor in art and the social studies at Sunset school, was asked to address a conference of rural teachers of the county at Gonzales last Saturday. Miss Baer discussed the social studies, and the most effective method of correlating art study with other subjects and with the students' daily life.

Sinclair Lewis Book Reviewed

Like so many other celebrated personages, Sinclair Lewis has a Carmel background, and so Mrs. Mabel Turner prefaced her excellent review of the writer's sensational latest work, "It Can't Happen Here," for the Woman's club book section Wednesday morning, with an intimate sidelight on a local incident. "Half a Loaf," written by the writer's first wife, Grace Lewis, told of their automobile trip west from New York when one of "Red's" first big checks made such an adventure possible. In Carmel they disposed of the beloved flivver, accepting the pittance offered by two girls "who would appreciate it properly."

In seeking for those qualities which have made Lewis a literary prize winner, Mrs. Turner decided that they were first of all his "accounting eye," which results in amazingly realistic descriptions, and his ability to blow life into his characters. The reviewer objected, however, to the fantastic names he gives to those characters, "hard to pronounce and hard to remember."

To tell the story which has given America such a grim warning of the means by which a fascist dictatorship might be brought about here, and just what that would mean in terms of the daily life of the average citizen, Mrs. Turner introduced and explained the chief characters, and followed their fate through the book. She read many richly ironic bits of description and characterization. The reviewer obviously found little pleasure in reading this book of blood and iron, but felt an obligation of intelligent readers to be informed of its contents and message. In the brief period allowed for the review, she succeeded well in presenting its gist, and much of its flavor as well.

Women Voters League May Oppose Repeal of Sales, Income Taxes

Landlord Takes Council to Task

THAT the California League of Women Voters will oppose repeal of the sales tax and the income tax appeared probable following the recent Northern Conference in San Francisco, at which Mrs. Carl Voss, president of the Monterey County League and vice president for Northern California, presided as chairman. The conference recommended such a stand; the state executive committee, meeting in March, will consider it further, and local leagues will be asked to give the matter study in time for a definite policy to crystallize at the state convention in October.

Reports on the governor's tax conference were given by Mrs. Paul Jones, state president, and Mrs. Allen Jones, chairman for government and taxation. Attention was called to the vagueness of the figures quoted by the experts, varying all the way from prophecy of a 70 million dollar deficit to prognostications of a surplus. It appeared that state expenditures may be in excess of the budget adopted, even counting expected revenues from the sales tax and income tax. No effective revenue-producing measure has been proposed in place of the sales tax, and no alternative of any kind for the income tax, it was brought out.

Action of the conference was with reference to the present crisis only, and was thought to imply no promise that the League was always to be counted on to favor either or both of the tax measures under discussion. Suggested for immediate intensive study by local Leagues was local government payrolls, in line with the program for better public personnel, which the League believes to be one effective method of cutting government costs. The conference voted to oppose as too inflexible the proposed teachers' tenure amendment to the state constitution. Progress was reported on the task of drafting a measure which would reorganize and remove from politics the state department of social welfare.

Mrs. Robert Stanton of the local League made one of the conference reports, telling of enthusiasm stimulated among high school students, for better government personnel, by means of essay and poster contests.

Returned from the conference Mrs. Voss told of a valuable program being carried on by bay area leagues in studying "What is the matter with domestic service?" Questionnaires have been sent out to both maids and mistresses, in an effort to discover whether a better relationship cannot be promoted between the two, and whether domestic service cannot be made into a more attractive career for young women. Among facts discovered: girls need better training for service, the "social stigma" should be removed, and the mistresses need training too.

Protection of consumers is one of the items proposed for study as part of the League's two-year program, involving adequate food, drug and cosmetic laws, quality standards and labeling for consumer's goods, and in line with this program the local League will begin at once a study of "What's in a Can?"

Although called to task by Percy Parkes for unwarranted "interference with my business," the city council at its meeting last Thursday evening refused to reconsider its resolution to the State Board of Equalization requesting that an on-sale liquor license be refused for the Monte Verde Apartments, near Ocean on Monte Verde. A direct question from Mr. Parkes brought the response that the council would not instruct License Collector Robert Norton to refuse a restaurant license for the premises should such be requested.

Mr. Parkes explained that he would not be running the place himself, but had rented it to Messrs. Young and Drever, who planned to operate a first-class restaurant, and to use the upper story for living quarters for themselves and their families.

The only comment from the spectator section was from Mrs. C. E. Hathaway, who repeated objections previously voiced. "The proposed liquor establishment is close to a church, is near a good residence district, and that another restaurant at that corner is unnecessary, as there is one right next door."

BOY SCOUTS REHEARSE TONITE

Through the organization of Tom Houston, Pebble Beach senior, a Camera Club has been founded as one of the most active groups on the Pomona College campus, according to reports from the south. Houston, who graduated from Monterey Union High School in 1932, has become interested in photography as a hobby.

As leader of the campus movement, Houston was recently elected president of the college Camera Club. Recent activities included a club sponsorship of the first photographic exhibit in college annals. The exhibit received local and statewide comment for excellence of art.

Gourmets Plan Del Monte Feast

A revival in the fine art of drinking resulted from the end of prohibition. Now something is being done in the way of reviving the fine art of eating.

This at least, is the opinion of a number of persons who are genuinely interested in the gastronomic welfare of the country and anxious for America to gain a place as one of the epicurean centers of the world.

Accordingly they have banded themselves together under the title of the American Association of Gourmets with headquarters at Del Monte.

Their object is to gather together tried and true recipes from all parts of the country and to give them to the world. They have started this work by polling all celebrities for their views in a national contest.

Then on March 14, 15 of the outstanding members of the association will gather at Del Monte and by a process of elimination decide which are the best ten recipes submitted.

Answers to the poll are already pouring in but not all of them are in the same serious vein with which the association members face the problem of a country that has forgotten how to eat elegantly.

Kite Festival Prizes Announced

TWENTY-ONE prizes will be given for entries in the various classes for the kite festival it was announced this week as, with the reopening of schools following the week's unexpected vacation preparations were resumed for the flying tournament March 14. There will also be special prizes for the Filipino kite fight, the special event of the annual attraction.

Decision of the judges will be made on the basis of design, construction and finish, and according to the general rules that the kites must be made entirely by the children entering them and that regardless of changes made, no kite entered in previous festivals can be shown this year. No kite can be entered in more than one section, and a kite must fly to win a prize.

This year there will be a special division under Section 1, best kites, for the younger children, from kindergarten to second grade, with a camera as first prize; second, a top; third, a ball of string; and fourth, a ball of string. Class B under Section 1 is for grades 3 to 5, in which the four best kite-makers will receive a block plane, a camera, a knife and a rule. Class C for grades 6 to 8, will compete for a jack plane, a camera, knife and rule. For ninth grade and up, Class D, one prize is offered.

Boys only will compete in Section 2, oddest kite. There are two classes, A, from third to eighth grades; Class B, ninth grade and older. Four prizes for Class A are: set of five bits, hammer, knife and a pair of pliers. The prize for Class B will be a camera.

Girls from third to eighth grade may enter Section 3, prettiest kite, and the prizes will be a camera, a compact, a handkerchief, and some sheets of cellophane.

Sponsors of the annual kite festival are Dr. Willis G. White, founder of the event, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Willard, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Crossman, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Barderson, Mr. and Mrs. Armin Hansen, Mayor and Mrs. James Thoburn, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knox, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stanford, Mrs. Sidney Fish, Mrs. W. F. Kilpatrick, Miss Ada Howe Kent and Miss Elizabeth Niles.

Grace Moore at Filmarte Tonight

Beginning tonight, the Filmarte offers a "last chance" showing of Grace Moore's exquisite "One Night of Love," still tops among the musicals. The film will conclude Sunday night. There will be matinees both Saturday and Sunday.

Next week the Filmarte will inaugurate its spring playing schedule, playing only at week-ends and double-billing all features except the foreign-language films, which when available will be played exclusively on Thursdays. The first combination of features, to be shown from Friday to Sunday, Feb. 28 to March 1, will be "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," a new Gaumont-British production; the favorite, "Sanders of the River," with Paul Robeson; and a gay new musical, "Evensong," starring the beautiful Evelyn Laye.

These first-rate pictures will be combined on double bills in such a way that any one or all of them can be seen either at the first or at the second showing of the evening. Full announcements will be issued next week.

Schools Observe Birthdays of Great

Birthdays of Lincoln and Washington will be commemorated at Sunset school with a special assembly this afternoon at 2:50. The program will be informal, consisting of speeches by a number of the eighth grade pupils. As the school was closed on Lincoln's birthday, the anniversaries of the two national heroes are to be celebrated with the one program.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

ONE of the books now receiving a good deal of attention from reviewers is John Gunther's "Inside Europe." Mr. Gunther has visited in Carmel; he is a nephew of Joseph Schoeninger, and the Schoeningers report that he is coming for another visit in the fall. When last here, about six years ago, he told guests at a large luncheon at Old Cabin Inn all about the people of Georgia. As European correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, Mr. Gunther has been accumulating for a number of years the material for this book, which deals chiefly with the dictators and other limelighted personalities of Europe. The volume has not yet reached Carmel—the Schoeningers haven't even received their copy—but as parts of it have appeared in a series of articles in Harper's magazine, readers have tasted its flavor. Reviewers seem impressed not so much by the authenticity of the material, which is not questioned, but by the qualities the writer has brought to the task—the insight, understanding of motivating forces, and a perception with which the young American writer has looked at Europe's great.

He seems to have achieved an important historical "scoop" in placing his fingers on the cause of Hitler's peculiar Jew phobia, at least nearly all the reviewers comment on this point: Hitler has never in his life conversed with or been in the company of a Jew. It is usually easier to hate and fear a people you do not know than one with which you are well acquainted. Another much-quoted point: Stalin is the only one of the European dictators who is serene.

Now in London, Mr. Gunther has also been stationed in Vienna, Paris, Rome, and other European capitals. He is married and has one child. His wife is a clever girl and a writer. She helps him a good deal in his work, carrying on his regular stint when he is called away for special assignments.

As the author of a popular book which promises to be a best seller, and with fresh information at his fingertips, Carmelites will welcome the opportunity to hear him speak again when he arrives in the fall.

THE Carmel visit of Mabel Dodge and Tony Luhan was briefer than usual this year;—only four days, as Tony had to be back for a ceremonial dance the 15th, but they may return later. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers, and the objective of the visit was for Mrs. Luhan to do a bit of final spade work for the next volume of her "Intimate Memories." In that monumental labor she has now moved along to the period with which most readers chiefly associate her, the last of the pre-war years when she was the center of a brilliant circle of people "doing things" in New York. Carl Van Vechten presented her safely and her personality in "Peter Whiffle"; the detailed, factual account of those years will be given in the forthcoming volume. Lincoln Steffens was one of the group; on her brief stay here she checked with him on names, dates, and happenings.

On the way to California Mrs. Luhan was inspired with the idea that an automobile trailer would be a grand thing to have for their desert trips, to the Indian ceremonials and such jaunts. It should be a most economical means of seeing the country, she thought. So they looked around in Los Angeles and found just the thing; a used, but still serviceable trailer. At least it was fine until they tried to hook it to Tony's low-slung De Soto; the outfit "sat down and wouldn't move," tandem style.

The next step was to look around for an old automobile of the high-pocket type;—the adventure was beginning to be expensive, but Mabel Luhan was never one to turn back, having set her hand to the plow. So they bought an ancient automobile, high enough from the road so that the trailer could be easily attached, that is, fairly easily—it took about an hour to perform the operation and another hour at the end of the day, to unhook it, and they had to hire a mechanic to drive the extra car and hook and unhook the trailer. But still all went well, and on the trip back to the desert Mrs. Luhan enjoyed the sensation of sitting high in the air—you can see so much more scenery than in the modern, low-ceilinged cars.

The latest bulletin came back from their last overnight stay this side of Taos. The Los Angeles mechanic had gone joy-riding in the old car, with trailer attached, and wrecked the whole outfit. And so ends on that episode.

HARRIET SMITH has gone home to Stockton. The young theatrical director has produced, in less than a year, 19 plays, in Carmel and elsewhere, and she is going to take a good, long rest. She headed her own stock company, the Pinon Players, through a strenuous season, directing all but one or two of the plays, and carrying a considerable burden in keeping the company functioning smoothly through a stiff production schedule, a new play every week, and four performances a week.

In the autumn she stayed on as director for the Community Players, and produced three excellent shows, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "The Church Mouse" and "Double Door." She left at the end of last week, expressing farewell good wishes to her many Carmel friends, and saying that it has been a happy experience to work with the local dramatic group.

ETHEL TURNER, the woman who was down to her last three cents when she made the providential sale of her book, "One Way Ticket" for $5500, is a former Carmelite. She came here in 1912, and left about 1915, after having shown herself to be an excellent amateur actress in a number of Forest Theater productions. She also won some recognition as a poet. "One Way Ticket" was pronounced a remarkably good book when it came out a couple of years ago. Her Carmel friends have lost track of her again, are unable to state to what use she put her good fortune.

Executive Board Meets Wednesday

The monthly executive board meeting of the Monterey County League of Women Voters will be held at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning at Mission Inn, Monterey. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock at the same place the government and economic welfare study group will hold its meeting, with Miss Helen Davis as chairman. Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger will give an analysis of the federal social security bill. Mrs. T. G. Emmons will discuss unemployment insurance; the insecurity clause of the bill will be presented by Miss Nell McKeen, and there will be a discussion of old age pensions as brought out in the bill.

Tuesday afternoon of this week "New Nationalism" was discussed at the meeting of the international relations group of which Mrs. Russell Scott is chairman.

Abalone League to Open Season on Sunday With Double-Header

By CHAS. K. VAN RIPER
WITH enough players listed to make six clubs, the Abalone League at its final pre-season meeting decided to make heavy allowances for reserves rather than deploy all its forces on the firing line in the opening engagement this Sunday. Four clubs will go into action on the Carmel Woods diamond, with games at 1:30 and 2:45.

The six-club set-up was all ready to go, but at the last minute the playing committee anticipated severe casualties by concentrating the talent under four of the traditional banners, at the same time creating a tremendous reservoir of man-, woman-, and child-power that can be drawn on in emergencies.

The Abalone Leaguers will break out the battle-flags of Tigers, Giants, Shamrocks and Pilots. Captains of the respective teams are Helen Heavy, Frank Jacott, Hap Hasty and Allen Knight.

The 1:30 game will bring together the Tigers and Pilots. Prospective line-ups are:

TIGERS: Heavy, Kelsey, Bardarson, McMenamin, Ford, Ricketts, Henneken, Handley, Reamer and Jimmy Handley.

PILOTS: Knight, Henry, Van Ripper, H. Van Ripper, Townsend, Jenkins, Y. Miyamoto, Hooper, Thienes and Tony Van Ripper.

Probable line-ups in the second game:

SHAMROCKS: Hasty, Fies, Hale, Dawson, Warren, Hilbert, Frost, Staniford, Dawson, Baird, Bardarson.

GIANTS: Jacott, Hicks, Williams, Morris, Alderson, K. Miyamoto, Alderson, Conlon, Whitcomb and Jimmie Kelsey.

Culvert Storm Center Before Carmel Council

Referred by the city council to the city attorney for study was a complaint by Attorney John Milton Thompson, on behalf of his clients, Hal Bragg, John Nelkirk, and W. J. Kingsland, that a culvert installed by the street department at Eighth and Torres has diverted storm waters from the public highway to their property. The controversial culvert is at present stopped up, the run-off from the current rains is following a channel down the east side of Torres street.

"Boys I Knew" to be Subject of Address

With Judge Mary Bartelme as the speaker, a Boy Scout Court of Honor will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at Sunset auditorium. "Boys I Knew," will be the subject of Judge Bartelme's address.

The program will open with the flag raising and salute to the flag. The Cubs will present the Akela Indian Dance, and Troop 39 will stage a bull fight. Two accordion solos will be played by Martin Artellan: "Dream of Love" and "Treasure Island." The Sea Scouts will present a skit.

After the talk by Judge Bartelme awards will be presented, to Troop 39 by Jack Schroeder, to Troop 86 by Byington Ford, to the Sea Scouts by Everett Smith. Otto W. Bardarson is chairman of the Court of Honor.

Theodore Strong In Organ Recital

An organ without pipes, reeds or bellows is to be on exhibition and to be played next week at Lial's Studio in Monterey. Theodore Strong, noted organist, will be guest artist for the occasion.

The organ consists of merely a console and an amplifier. The console is smaller than an upright piano, being approximately four and a half feet long by two feet wide and weighing 275 pounds. The amplifier, concealed behind the choir loft, is about three feet square and weighs 200 pounds. Despite its size, however, the instrument duplicates all the tones and combinations of tones possible with large pipe organs.

There are two manuals, with 61 playing keys on each, plus 36 harmonic controls, a volume pedal and a tremulant. Almost countless special effects can be obtained, including the tones of the harp, violin, flute, clarinet, trumpet, bass horn, oboe, saxophone, xylophone and even bagpipes.

American Heroes Honored by D.A.R.

The birthdays of Washington and Lincoln were celebrated jointly by Commodore Sloat Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, with a luncheon program devoted to American citizenship at Holman's solarium Tuesday. Mrs. Leo Regan presided, as regent, and the program was arranged by Mrs. Sam Moore. A number of guests were present, in addition to the members.

Speaker of the day was Mrs. Adelaide Stites, who gave a scholarly and interesting comparison of the two American heroes, and applied the yardstick of their ideals to present-day Americanism. Other outstanding items on the program were piano solos by Bill Van Ess, a Beethoven sonata, and a composition of his own, and a solo dance by Winifred Van Ess. Mrs. Millicent Sears read the Gettysburg Address.

Introduced as special guests were three Monterey county high school girls, Jean Perkins of Pacific Grove, Jean Stewart of Monterey, and Jean Koepke of Watsonville, winners in their respective schools of a contest to select a California representative to the National D.A.R. convention in Washington, D. C.

LEAVE FOR YOSEMITE

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill Vincent of San Mateo left for Yosemite after being guests for several days of Mr. and Mrs. John Magee. The Magees' Sunday afternoon "at homes," with bridge and tea for their friends, continue to be one of the chief features of the social season in Pebble Beach.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON TWO NEW RESIDENCES

Construction started on two new residences this week. For Mrs. A. C. Wainwright, William Chappell is building a story-and-a-half rustic cottage, on her four lots at Camino Del Monte and First. Mrs. I. M. Meyers is having a two-story residence built on Carmelo, between Twelfth and Thirteenth.

Personnel of Carmel's Fire Department—Who They Are, and What They Do

By THELMA B. MILLER

PROSPECTS of a new fire house for Carmel have brought the fire department much to the fore, and have aroused a curiosity in the minds of many of us as to just who and what the fire department is. So I went down to the fire house last night—every Thursday night is set aside by the boys for either drill or study. I found a gathering of fellow citizens, most of whom I knew by sight, or very well. I was surprised at the number of years most of them have devoted to the fire department, and at the serious way they take their purely voluntary responsibility to Carmel.

They were gathered in a little cell about the shape of a street-car; long and narrow, shabby, but cheerful. They have tried to make a sort of club room of it; there are plain chairs and tables, and a faded bit of carpet on the floor. There was the natural hub-bub of 20 men gathered in a small room until their chief, Robert Leidig, called them to order, quietly, and rather formally. Instantly the noise subsided, and they snapped to quick, silent attention. Good discipline and good morale were evident, even in such a routine matter as the weekly semi-social meeting.

Someone handed me a list of the members, arranged in strict alphabetical order, no precedence for the higher-ups. Each man stepped up bravely for his "thumb-nail interview," and this is what I learned about the personnel of the fire department:

William (Bill) Askew has lived in Carmel since 1919, and has been a member of the fire department for seven years and is one of the three captains of the department. For the past six years he has been superintendent of Carmel's streets. Birney

W. Adams helped to organize the fire department in 1915 and has been an active member ever since, save for short absences. He came here first in 1907. Carmel has been his home since 1911, though he has been away for short periods, in the forestry service. He was the department's first chief, is now one of the salvage crew. He lives, breathes and dreams fire prevention, which works in well with his job as city inspector.

John Black, nozzleman, is a carpenter in private life. A good carpenter hates to see the result of his labors go up in smoke. That is why he has been a fireman for five years. He's 16 years a Carmelite. Byron Chappel, another carpenter, is a hoseman. He also has lived here for 16 years, has been on the department for three years, and served three years at one previous period.

Stanley Clay, a high school student, is one of the department's youngest and newest members, with ten month's service and several fires to his credit. He works at Ewig's after school and Saturdays. He is one of the nozzlemen "take the punishment" in fire fighting; it's hard and dangerous work. Stanley has lived in Carmel 12 years.

Keith Evans, proprietor of the Plaza fuel company, is a well known figure, having been in business here for five years. He is one of the three laddermen, and has a record of four years' service in the department. William (Billy) France is a "radio-trician" by trade, with headquarters at the Carmel Hardware store. He mans the salvage wagon and is making a valuable hobby of rescue work. Has been in Carmel six years, in the department two years.

Paul Funchess, machinist, is an assistant chief. He is one of the veterans; nine years in the department, 12 years in Carmel. Barney Bracisco (seems to have got out of his alphabetical place, but we'll leave him where he is) is one of the novices, having served six months on top of his probationary three months. His job as service man with the P. G. & E. has made his smiling face known to everyone who has gas and electric service, and has given him a good knowledge of fire hazards. He came to Carmel with the P. G. & E. seven years ago. Lynton Hitchcock, only two years out of high school, is another of the young fellows. He was born in Carmel, but lived in Oakland most of the time while growing up. He has been back for three years, on the department for ten months, as a ladderman.

Charles Guth, policeman, finds that police and fire department activities work well together. The first pays better, but the second offers plenty of excitement. He is busier than a one-armed drummer, at a fire, generally being needed in several places at once. So he has been assigned to rescue work, part of which is to keep people from getting themselves hurt rushing to fires. He has been a fireman for 10 years, a policeman for seven, and has lived here 12 years.

Frank Jacott is outside represent-

CARMEL FARM CENTER MEETING THIS EVENING

The Monterey high school bond issue will be the chief topic at the Carmel Farm Center meeting at the Farm Center hall tonight.

J. R. McKillop and M. Brenner will talk on the matter, and Miss Anne Olson, home demonstration agent, will discuss better buying.

Songs will be given by Robert Perez.

active for the telephone company, and is on the rescue squad with the fire department. Jack Jordan is associated with his father, John Jordan, at Pine Inn, where he is on the desk as clerk. He was in the department for three years, until about two years ago, and has now completed a new probationary period and has been a member for about a month. He drives the big engine, and has lived in Carmel for 15 years.

Robert G. Leidig was one of the organizers of the department and has been its chief since December, 1925. He is one of Carmel's "oldest inhabitants"—29 years. If there is anything more important to him than fire prevention and fire fighting, I don't know what it is, and neither, I'll venture to say, does he. As a sideline he sells fire extinguishers for homes and places of business—trying to take jobs away from the fire department.

Walter Lewis, painter, is one of the hosemen, and Albert Lockwood, who mans the hydrants, is a high school student. Dave Machado, another old-timer, has been in the department for 20 years, and in Carmel for 22. In private life he is a truck driver. Paul Mercurio, barber, is now moving into his own new shop in the Fee building. He is one of the three fire captains and has served the department for nine years. He came here to live in 1921.

The third captain is Fred Mylar of the post office, where he has served the public for five years. He joined the fire department five years ago, a year after he came here.

Vincent Torras, assistant chief, is agent for the Del Monte Laundry. He has lived in Carmel 16 years, and has been a fireman for 10 of them.

Earl Walls, ladderman, works for the street department. He has ten years in the fire department to his credit, just one year less than he has lived here. John Weigold, manager of Espindola's, has lived in Carmel 15 years. He is a hydrant man, and has been in the department 10 years. James Williams, one of the salvage crew, has been a fireman for six years, and has lived in Carmel for eight. He is a clerk at the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank. John Molteni, wood dealer, is a hoseman.

That completes the roster, save for "Toots," the mascot—Lawrence Leidig, son of Mrs. Florence Leidig, who is only 14 and so too young to be a full-fledged fireman, but he is learning, and will be a valuable recruit some day.

SCHOOL REOPENS

Sunset school resumed sessions Monday, with attendance improved, but not yet back to normal. It is believed that general health conditions are much better but that due to the unsettled weather a number of convalescent pupils are being kept at home a few days longer.

REPUBLICAN TO SPEAK

Alonzo D. Baker, candidate for Republican nomination for Congress, will speak at a meeting sponsored by the Carmel Republican club next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the assembly room at Pine Inn. The Republican club will hold a meeting Tuesday evening at Pine Inn.

FROM BURLINGAME

Mrs. Philip Wilson arrived yesterday from Burlingame to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Thorburn.

Steps Outlined for Candidates

IN CASE you are thinking of running for office—and in the spring the fancy lightly turns, etc.—this is what you must do. You must go to City Clerk Saldee Van Brower and ask her for a nomination paper, which is also an "affidavit of acceptance." To be eligible for office in Carmel you must be a registered voter, and you must have lived in the city for at least a year. The nomination paper must be signed by at least five of your friends, also residents of Carmel and qualified voters. There are ten blanks for names and it is best to have them all filled, because in checking over the list the clerk may find that one or more of your backers has neglected to register, or has forgotten that he or she lives just over the line, in Hatton Fields or the Point. If so, they are struck from the list of signers.

Either you or the person who circulates the petition for you must then go before a notary and swear that each and every signature is true and has been witnessed by the person swearing. This is more than a mere formality—look what happened to the Communists who neglected it, at the state election!

When duly notarized, the paper is filed with the city clerk and you may begin campaigning. When soliciting your friends' votes, better remind them to register, too. March 26 is the dead-line.

Lesson Sermon On "Mind" for Sunday

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be ready Sunday, Feb. 23, on the subject "Mind."

The Golden Text will be: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is understanding" (Prov. 9: 10). Bible selections will include the following passage from Ps. 94: 9, 10: "He that planted the ear, shall he not hear? he that formed the eye, shall he not see? He that chastiseth the heathen, shall not he correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, shall not he know?"

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "Mind is God. . . Intelligence is omniscience, omnipresence, and omnipotence. It is the primal and eternal quality of infinite Mind, of the true Principle, — Life, Truth, and Love, — named God" (p. 469).

What the Candidates Have to Say

FOR CITY COUNCIL

Editor The Pine Cone:

After being asked by a number of taxpayers, I have decided to be a candidate for the Carmel City Council.

I feel that it is the voters and taxpayers right to know somewhat of my past experience in regard to holding public office by a vote of the people.

I was born in northern Vermont 50 years ago and lived there until 1923 when I came to Carmel and have built two homes here.

In Vermont I worked on highways as a laborer. I was elected by the people to the position of road commissioner in Lyndon, Vermont, which had 100 miles of road to be maintained.

I was appointed by the state highway commission to maintain the state highway and also appointed by the state highway commission to lay out the state money for building new state roads in Lyndon. I was also elected to the office of chief engineer of the fire company, as fire warden and tax collector. I fulfilled these offices so that I was elected the second time by a much larger majority. I was one of the first as a town official to recommend and draw up a budget system for expenditure of the taxpayers' money.

I feel that the expenditures of Carmel can be cut 25 per cent under a budget system. I am absolutely opposed to the cutting of city employees salaries and I know that the expense can be cut 25 per cent without cutting any salaries.

I am not in favor of paved streets all over Carmel.

I do know from my 15 years' experience with dirt highways that there can be good dirt highways maintained in Carmel.

I am not in favor of cutting down trees unnecessarily. I am not in favor of tearing out any of our parks to make parking space for automobiles. I am 100 per cent for keeping Carmel as it was intended to be so people will continue to come here and build homes as they are doing. At the present time there are more houses under construction in Carmel than in any other community of its size and that is because it is Carmel.

If I am elected on the council I will fulfill the office to the best of my ability.

I absolutely will oppose the council in any radical changes in the city or any expenditure on the budget without a vote of the people.

I shall recommend an itemized account of every cent of the taxpayers' money that is expended, be published in The Pine Cone every three months.

ERNEST W. ALDRICH.

FOR CITY TREASURER

Editor The Pine Cone:

May I, through your newspaper, present my name to the people of Carmel-by-the-Sea as a candidate for the office of City Treasurer?

I am a college graduate with a B. S. degree, having specialized in science and mathematics. For more than 25 years I have been a resident, associating myself with the development and upbuilding of this city. For four years, I acted as councilman on the city board, and for many years I served as clerk in the Carmel post office, where I handled the money order and registry business.

I feel that I am competent to do this work and would appreciate the support of the people of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

HELEN W. PARKES.

B. F. WRIGHT INJURED

B. F. Wright, former Monterey mayor and well known in Carmel, is recovering from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile Monday night in Monterey. The car was driven by Charles Devoto. Mr. Wright was taken to a hospital for treatment.

No-Parking Plan Again Brought Up

Mayor James Thoburn reopened at the council meeting last Thursday evening, the matter of prohibiting all parking on Ocean avenue, between Mission and Junipero, ordered by resolution of the council at one meeting, rescinded at the next meeting at the request of the Monterey Theater Corporation and M. J. Murphy Inc., property owners in that block. No remarks were made either for or against. Holding an informal caucus the mayor found that the council was divided on the proposition, with Councilmen Brownell, Burge and Catlin against it, Councilman Rowntree and the mayor prepared to uphold the no-parking provision. He did not call for a vote.

The council was not prepared to state definitely whether or not parking would be permitted along the center park-way, either outside the border of rocks now defining it, or by removal of the rocks, which would allow cars to park on the center park-way. It was discovered this week that Ordinance No. 50 specifies that parking is permitted in the center strip from Monte Verde to San Carlos, which would appear to render illegal the present parking in the center of the street from San Carlos to Mission, and would prevent parking in the center from Mission to Junipero.

WASHINGTON'S Birthday, though quietly observed in Carmel, and with most shops and other establishments open as usual, is the first of the spring holidays to bring many visitors to Carmel. Coming as it does on Saturday, it was expected that a considerable number of week-enders would be arriving, and all this week a good many "city folks" have been observed strolling in the sunny hours between showers. The unsettled character of the weather has made uncertain the plans of Carmelites planning trips to San Francisco or south to the races, but a good many of them were planning if possible to take advantage of the holiday.

One of the pretty parties of the week was the 1 o'clock luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. John E. Abernethy at Highlands Inn, in compliment to Mrs. William Haldenby of Toronto, who is spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. W. E. Heathorne. Spring has come to the Highlands; the dining-room was a bower of spring flowers. Mrs. Abernethy's guests, besides the honoree, were Mrs. C. Chapel Judson, Mrs. D. W. Scripture, Mrs. C. J. Ryland, Mrs. Alger Fast and Mrs. Heathorne.

Miss Margaret Swedberg and Mrs. E. L. Rawson of Monterey are spending this week-end in Berkeley as guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Titmas.

Mrs. Ella S. Goddard joined her son, David Goddard in San Francisco for a pleasant week-end. He is third officer of the Point Judith. They attended "The Old Maid" Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Coblenz have returned from a visit to St. Helena, where Mrs. Coblenz lived during her school days.

Mrs. Arthur St. Clair Smith of Long Beach is here for a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McGuckin and Mr. and Mrs. Al Sparks are leaving today for the winter sports in Yosemite. They will return Monday.

Henry A. Stone of Caulfield, West Vancouver, B. C., has returned to his northern home after three months in La Loma Terrace. He took with him a portfolio of water-color sketches, made during his stay here.

Miss Roxie Bachelder is here in her cottage on Crespi Lane, entertaining two friends from San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tevis have returned to their home in Carmel after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sutro, Jr., in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Walker have returned home after a visit with relatives and friends in Bakersfield and Taft.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Delafeld Phelps are among the local turf fans attending the races at Santa Anita.

Among the week-end guests at Peter Pan Lodge, in the Carmel Highlands were Mr. and Mrs. Arn Adaskin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Boris Hambourg and Milton Blackstone of the Hart House String Quartet, Toronto, Canada; Mrs. D. Rajagopal and Miss Radha Rajagopal of Hollywood; J. Krishna-murti of Ojai; Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGuire of Berkeley and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Levison of San Francisco.

M. V. Edward has joined his friend, J. R. Waghorn for a month at Pine Inn. Both are residents of Vancouver, B. C.

After a visit with her mother, Mrs. Henry Langdon, in Oroville, Mrs. O. L. Davis has returned to her home here.

E. C. Converse has returned home from New York City. He reports that his gifted wife, Actress Peggy Converse, is on a book company which has just left New York to tour in "Personal Appearance."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burgess have returned to their home in Walnut Creek after a visit here, during Mr. Burgess' convalescence following a severe illness.

Mrs. Clara McGowan has gone to Berkeley to visit for a month with her sister.

"YOU CAN'T STOP PROGRESS"

What can be done to take concrete advantage of the increasingly evident groundswell of dissatisfaction at the trend of events in Carmel? It is something more than the chronic disgruntlement of a rather more than usually aggressive and articulate community. It is time for the constructive element to act, if the rather panicky feeling that "something must be done" is not dissipated in talk.

The people who feel the most keenly the slipping away of all that Carmel has cherished in times past are the fighters. On the contrary, those who have nailed their banners to the mast of the smug assertion, "You can't stop progress!" are both aggressive and active. But the dignified pressure of numbers, if properly channeled, can be more effective than the noisy yapping of a minority.

"Progress," for Carmel, needs considerable analysis and definition. The people who have found here a haven where they felt reasonably safe from "progress," have definite rights to be considered. Progress in terms of the business man can only mean, we assume, more residents and more visitors.

There are at least two possible types of newcomers, the so-called "cheap crowd," looking for a cheap place to stage a week-end brawl, or the conservative, cultured families looking for simplicity, natural beauty, quiet surroundings, an occasional lecture, concert or play to attend, books and magazines to read, a good school for their children.

If we are going to commit ourselves to "progress," if we are going to admit that we are growing and, aggressively, that we want to grow, then we at least owe it to the people who have already cast their lot here to appeal only to the latter class of residents and visitors. The realtors and the builders and the merchants will make more money from the sort of people we will be glad to welcome here, than from the other crowd.

The right kind of people are sensitive to first impressions, to externals. The other kind are indifferent to dying pines, to rigid granite traffic buttons, to white-painted tin cans at the foot of Ocean avenue, to fine old trees gone and to solid lines of parked cars where once was green peace.

The preservation of what is left of the unique beauty of Ocean avenue is one of the things that Carmel can do to prove its repudiation of the wrong kind of progress. The Business Association is an organization which could do it; it has a stake involved, too. The people who remain aloof from the Business Association have only themselves to blame if it shows an occasional tendency toward Chamber of Commerce ideas, away from its possible constructive destiny.

The Ocean avenue pines are dying, one after the other. They will be removed, and they will not be replaced unless someone demands that they be replaced. Why was not a young tree planted in front of the postoffice? Why have we no definite assurance that automobiles will not be allowed to smash down the last remaining block of untouched center parkway? Because "you can't stop progress," forsooth. When the remaining trees are sick enough, someone, in the name of "progress" will jerk them all out and cover the wound of their passing with solid concrete. The time to protest is now, before it is too late. There is need of a program for the preservation and restoration of Carmel's great civic asset, the charm of its downtown streets. It will not come by inertia and indifference, or mouthing about "progress."

HERE THE ROCK SLEEPS

*Here from the valley floor the long rock sleeps in the sky;
 Length over length the steep walls gather and lift till the far top dims,
 Majestic disdainful splendor, silently mocking with infinite peace
 The frailness of life and of motion,
 Drinking the dawns, the torrent of time since the hot world cooled
 And this long range rose on the crust.
 O enormous mass, eagle-hungry height, bewildering beauty of stone:
 El Capitan, Cathedral Spires, Half Dome, Fronting the wild jumble of peaks and the broken thunder of rock in the treeless spurs and the starving sky!*

*I think it best to leave this place and not come back;
 To see it once and turn away, the first look scored on the numbed sight,
 The memory kept like a searing coal to startle the nerves in the last thin years
 When the senses lag and the worn mind wavers toward night.*

—BILL EVERSON.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

EVEN in the rain a green flame is running over the village, and mingled with that flame the delicate smoke of air dissolving to water. It is impossible not to feel cheerful, even with the sun hidden and the heavens weeping, for there is a feeling of life astir. The very rain is warm, and the gardens are coming to life! Bulbs prick the earth with green spears, there are rosy new shoots on the roses, the shrubs that drop their leaves are hiding their naked branches in a verdant mist. There are rosettes of tender growth on the tips of the oak twigs, and the pine trees are lifting pale candles to the sky. The first sifting pollen of the acacias has been washed away, but soon that dust of spring will be wafted again over the whole village.

THE people who are worried about the state of the nation should have been at the concert of chamber music at Sunset auditorium Friday evening. And the people who are worried about unfinished WPA projects, and about trees being cut down, and about who is going to be elected to the council, and about mounting government expenditures, and about dogs being poisoned, and about Supreme Court decisions, and about the gathering clouds of war, and about old age pensions, and about unpaid bills, and about the parking situation on Ocean avenue, and about the fire house bond election, and because the country is in an awful state. All those people should have been at the concert. Because they would have felt that it all did not matter so much after all, and that there might still be some hope for the future. Music is a great help for a troubled state of mind, particularly calm, pure music of four stringed instruments playing rather quietly.

MR. MORGAN, the banker, is getting a good deal of gentle kidding — and some of it not so gentle — about his remarks about the leisure classes and the possible end of civilization, and his definition of those terms. As some one said, he got over better in his old midget act. It all goes to show what happens when an old gentleman speaks up, without pondering a bit, before a lot of noney newspaper men.

Perhaps Mr. Morgan was suffering from an overdose of English novels, in which everyone, even the poorest and most desperate families, seem to have at least one servant. Getting his geography a bit mixed, he figured that it was in America that 25 or 30 million families keep servants, therefore are rich, leisured, and cultured, therefore are the bulwarks of civilization.

If Mr. Morgan would like to go around with us some time, we will guarantee to show him some highly civilized families, though maidless. Also some other households where the wives took advantage of the last jump ahead of the sheriff to turn the children over to some dumb but honest girl from the country, so that they could go out and become barflies. Which, all in all leaves civilization just about where it was before Mr. Morgan spoke.

In case anyone asks, that "they" in the sentence above refers to the mothers, not the children or the maids.

AMATEUR ENGINEERING

Carmel has been having a little Boston tea party of its own, and everyone is interested to see what the outcome will be. A culvert at Eighth and Torres has been stopped up by a group of hitherto model and law-abiding citizens who for more than a year have been vainly telling their troubles to the city fathers. That culvert was pointed directly into private property. This masterpiece of engineering kept storm water from plowing channels in the streets; instead, it flooded the gardens and the garages of property owners down the line. At least a year ago it was mentioned at the council table that perhaps the city had not been entirely wise or fair in thus solving its problems at the expense of the homes in the path of the water, but nothing was done.

Last week's heavy rains brought the matter to a crisis, and the property owners did a little engineering on their own hook. It is rumored that the street department opened up the controversial culvert once or twice, and that it was promptly closed each time by rebellious citizens, who have promised to "give themselves up" and fight it out in court if necessary. The water which would have flowed through the culvert has channeled a rut across Eighth street. But residents of the vicinity who have to cross the new canyon—only one of many, after all,—smile tolerantly as they shift into low and ease their cars over the ditch.

Carmel's drainage problem can't be solved by such simple solutions as plugging up misplaced culverts. Some day the village will have to be studied as a whole, and a system devised which will give everyone relief, not just dump water from one spot to another.

THE STORM KING STRIKES

Just as we get pretty favorably impressed with our "technological progress", Nature comes along and makes monkeys of the human race. Great sections of this country have been thrown into a chilly panic these last few weeks, locked in the grasp of the severest cold and the fiercest blizzards "in the memory of the oldest inhabitant." Transportation has broken down, food is hard to come by, and worst of all is the fuel shortage.

One would think that in a country like this, where so many problems have been solved by science and invention, man would be the master of winter storms, no matter how severe. Perhaps the playground of the Storm King, the great central valleys of the United States, had been lulled to a false sense of security. Those of us who once lived in the Snow Country remember the old folks saying: "There are no such cold winters and blizzards these days as there were when I was a child." They had an explanation for it; tilling great expanses of soil and building great cities had "changed the climate." You had to have stretches of open country for Winter to really get going.

And now comes this winter, with temperature records even more fantastic than those the old timers boasted of having lived through. People have suffered and died for lack of food and fuel and proper shelter. The drifts have baffled the best modern road machinery.

It looks as if there is still a place in the world for the pioneer, with the vision and foresight to trick Nature, no matter how capricious that sly jade becomes. Some master mind, or committee of them, should be able to plan things so well that no catastrophe of this sort could interrupt the smooth flow of essential goods and services.

PACIFIC GROVE

THE birthday of Dr. Francis Randol and St. Valentine's Festival were celebrated simultaneously at the Randol home on Lighthouse avenue Sunday evening. A delicious dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs.
Jack Irwin and their son, Jack, Jr.,
Misses Helen and Jean Randol, Messrs. Neil and Francis Randol and Dr. and Mrs. Randol.

The Misses Fae Hodges, Frances Parker, Thelma Baxter, Barbara Ansell and Bill Moffet journeyed to Watsonville last week and were interested spectators of the basketball battle between the teams of Pacific Grove and Watsonville. The Watsonville huskies emerged victorious over the Pacific Grove heavies with a score of 24 to 22, and the Pacific Grove babes vanquished their opponents by a 16 to 13 score.

The clubhouse of the Pacific Grove municipal golf course will be the scene of a dance and bridge party given by the Ladies Golf Club Saturday night. The husbands of the members are to be present in order that they may hear of their wives' triumphs in the realm of golf. Mrs.
George Paul is in charge of the committee on arrangements.

The eating of various unappetizing foods such as raw eggs and uncooked liver, and the wearing of strange and exotic apparel to the cinema, were only a part of the initiation experiences of the Misses Frances Parker, Barbara Ansell, Audrey Colburn, Clara Callendar, Betsy Ross, and Jean Perkins as they were "welcomed" into the ranks of the Block PG Society, Friday night.
By their participation in noon and after school sports these girls accumulated the required thousand points to become members of this organization. A potluck dinner preceded the initiation which was followed by a jaunt to the theater in the rain. The old members present included Misses Delores Neilson, president; Mildred Cashin, Doris Cook, Charleen Colvin, Eleanor Beaumont, Myrle Sprague, and alumnae Velma Ethridge, Kathleen Walters, and Dorothy Neilson, and Margaret Furness, athletic instructor in the Grove High.

With Mrs. George Schuyler as head of the occasion, the dinner given by members of the P-T. A. was a distinct success, both in quality of food and quantity of partakers.

Those giving much time and effort to the affair were Mesdames E. O.
Walker, Fred Goodale, R. L. Robinson, Elmer Fitzsimmons, Fred Nybro, Maude MacLeod, Horace Kenyon, W. H. Colburn, Ivan Wilson, Ethelyn Priddy, John Beaunon,
Frank Ansell, J. K. Brazelton,
Dwight McDaniels, Robert Hard, G.
R. Brazeamore, Louis Himmelstein, and Messrs. George Schuyler, Fred Nybro, E. O. Walker and Fred Goodale.

A dinner party Tuesday evening was enjoyed by the employees of the New Monterey Thrift Store through the courtesy of Leroy Atkins and F. Roberts, their employers. After refreshments, the group adjourned to the home of F. Roberts and cards were played during the remainder of the evening.

Miss Marion Glenin, cooking instructor of Pacific Grove High, has been quite ill with the "flu" which has been invading the peninsula.
It is thought she will be able to resume her classes this Monday. Mrs.
Gerald McStay has been taking over Miss Glenn's duties in her absence.

Wilfred Mack has been confined to his home while he has been getting "acquainted" with demon "flu" during the past week. Mrs. Wilfred Mack has also been ill during the past few days.

"Class Gossip" Is Sprightly Paper

First edition of "Class Gossip," a three-page mimeographed paper published by the seventh graders at Sunset school made its appearance this week. Joyce Thompson is the editor, the staff consists of Jacqueline Klein and Alice Vidoroni, news, Ann Millis, art, Bobby Froli, sports, and Ann Whitman, gossip. Like all literary products of Sunset school, it is well worth reading. Featured on page one is a book review by Jacqueline Klein.

We venture to "lift" the seventh graders' entire joke department:

When Joyce was visiting England an Englishman said to her: "The sun never sets on the British Empire."
"How unfortunate," replied Joyce,
"we have such beautiful sunsets in Carmel."

Mrs. Froli: "Bobby, it's time for you to get ready for school. Have you washed your ears?"

Bobby: "I washed the one that's on the side next to the teacher."

Mrs. Johnson: "What is the most famous city in Holland?"

Fanny: "Amstergosh."

Mrs. Johnson: "Don't you mean Amsterdam?"

Fanny: "Well, my mother told me not to use bad words."

Mr. Gale: "What's a saw horse?"

Roy: "Past tense of sea horse."

Mrs. Johnson: "If you subtract 14 from 116 what's the difference?"

Peewee: "Yeah, I think it's a lot of foolishness, too."

LIBRARIAN IS SPEAKER

Miss Barbara Wood of Carmel Library visited Sunset school Tuesday, speaking before several of the classes on newer books at the library, and telling a story in each room she visited.

CHACO INDIANS TOPIC

"The Indians of the Chaco," a very timely subject, will be discussed by the Missionary society at its meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, at Community church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Musical Season Inaugurated In Rousing Welcome to String Quartet

By THELMA B. MILLER

A LONG dearth of music made twice welcome the beginning of Carmel Music Society's winter series last Friday evening at Sunset auditorium. The artists who inaugurated the season, the Hart House String Quartet, also opened the society's first one, nine years ago.

The four players, of equally balanced proficiency and exquisite temperamental harmony, provided a memorable evening. The program was so arranged that there were brief solo passages, so that each instrument emerged at times from its proper subservient reticence, and each player showed himself to be a master. But for the most part four smooth, pure tones were braided into an exquisite, intricate pattern.

From the older literature there were Mozart and Beethoven, with the modern H. Waldo Warner proving not a bad companion for the masters. The program notes warned of a note of sadness in the first D minor quartet, but if there was sadness it was the transient pensiveness of Mozart;—not profound, never robust or earthy, but embodying at times just so much of heaven as you might hold for a moment between your two hands. For long passages the first violin sang with the sweetest of voices. I liked the spirit of the minuetto, in which many dainty and intricate embellishments went with the rhythm of a happy skip.

Descriptive music is apt to trap the auditor into the game of trying to identify the thing described, and so to forget the music itself. As there was only the slightest of pauses between the "moods" of the Warner work, the game had a certain zest, but it all left a rather vague impression. The harmonies are modern, but not enough so to upset anyone, and there were some fine, rich passages.
In the last mood the violins spoke in turn, voicing the indubitably smug theme, "conceit," to be pom-pously answered by the cello and the viola. As an encore the players offered "Dhu Lock" by the Britisher

McEwan, with a magnificent opening passage of sonorous, darkly colorful chords, and other passages reminiscent of the Dvorak largo.

In the Beethoven E minor quartet, the players seemed to be getting down to the real business of the evening. It is difficult to think, off hand, of a more thoroughly satisfying vehicle for a chamber music group, challenging them, as it does, to rise to their technical best, and presenting such a wealth of rich thematic material. Remembered are a hauntingly sweet passage by the viola, with the other instruments whispering encouragement, the softest pianissimo passage ever heard, near the close of the second movement, a glittering repartee of syncopated rhythms tossed lightly back and forth from voice to voice in the allegretto movement, and the almost orchestral sonority achieved in the closing movement.

As a postscript to an enchanted evening the players gave the Tschaikovsky "Andante Cantabile," and in this familiar material they proved, if they had not before, the superiority of their ensemble and the individual perfection of tones. The result was as if this much played standby of radio studio orchestras had not been heard before. New meanings emerged, and such singing sweetness of tone, such subtle underlining of graceful phrases as made one realize that here was a piece worthy of more serious attention and better performance than it usually receives.

It was altogether a happy occasion, and the auditorium was well filled despite the rainy evening. From now on the concerts will come thick and fast—the next is no more than three days away—Heifetz!

Chamber music groups are cus-tomarily almost anonymous under the banner of their ensemble; it should be mentioned that the players of the Hart House Quartet are James Levy, first violin; H. Arn
Adaskin, second violin; Milton Blackston, viola; and Boris Hambourg, cello.

The Financial Outlook . . .

DESPITE the ebb and flow of prosperity and depression, the tide of national wealth continues to rise. Deposits in national banks throughout the country have reached an all-time record high. Colossal sums of idle money await only the impetus of greater national confidence to force their emergence from unemployment.

This superabundance of unemployed wealth is reflected in the exceptionally low yields of high-grade bonds. Safety is paramount; yet rising costs of living demand careful consideration of yield as well as safety.

A safeguarded investment with ample yield, paying you a definite, immediate, and guaranteed monthly income that increases as inflationary forces come into play, is offered for your consideration by this company.

No investor, with an eye to the maintenance of income as well as safety can afford to overlook this offering.

Heifetz to Play Here Next Monday Evening

HEIFETZ! That is a name to electrify all music-lovers; all concert-goers; all alert and intelligent audiences. There is no need to say more than his name alone. Everyone knows who he is, what he is and what he means. He stands for all that is highest in the world of the violin. At this present time he is at the peak of his career. Those who attend the concert in the Sunset School auditorium next Monday evening will hear him at the supreme height of his art. They will say to their children and to their grandchildren: "I heard Heifetz when he was considered the greatest violinist of his time!"

It is no small thing for the Carmel Music Society to bring Heifetz to our community. It is a history-making event. For nine years we have been privileged to hear some of the greatest artists of the world, right in our midst. We have learned to look for a high standard from the Music Society but this coming concert will be a triumph. Heifetz in Carmel! The house will be sold out!

Heifetz will like his Carmel audience too. He responds warmly to enthusiasm. He responds warmly to spontaneous reaction. He dislikes coldness and formality on the part of an audience. Of the perfect audience he says, "Sometimes I find it. Sometimes I don't, but when the atmosphere is right I can give more than my best. Perhaps some day I shall have courage, and, when an audience has given me of its best, I shall answer its applause by applauding it back again, my 'Thank you' for the good performance of my listeners."

Several famous violins are owned by Heifetz; personages in their own right and known the world over. His favorites are his Guarnerius and his Stradivarius, both of which accompany him on all his tours. The Guarnerius, which Heifetz uses most frequently, is dated 1742, and valued at a fabulous price. It once belonged to Wilhelm, the great German artist who toured this country in the days of our grandfathers. Before that it was the property of Ferdinand David, a famous violinist of the last century. He was the teacher of Wilhelm and gave it to his pupil in his old age. At one time too, it came into the possession of the Spanish virtuoso, Sarasate, who played on it for many years. It is known as the "David Guarnerius" and is listed in all the catalogues of historic old-instruments.

Heifetz Program

Following is the program which Heifetz will play next Monday evening, accompanied at the piano by Emanuel Bay. This is the second of Carmel Music Society's winter series of concerts.

Cesar Franck, Sonata for piano and violin; Mozart, Concerto in A Major; Bach, Aria; Schubert-Friedberg, Rondo; Godowsky, Alt-Wien (Heifetz transcription); Ibert, The Little White Donkey (Heifetz transcription); Saint-Saens, Introduction and Rondo capriccioso.

The Stradivarius, made in the year 1731, is one of the finest examples of the master's last period. This beautiful golden-brown instrument is

POLICE CHIEF RESCUES

DOG FROM GOLDEN BOUGH

Invading the spooky darkness of the ruins of the Theatre of the Golden Bough after midnight Wednesday, Police Chief Robert Norton rescued a large fox terrier from a watery grave. The dog was trapped in a concrete well below what used to be the Golden Bough stage, and was swimming around in 18 inches of stagnant water. Its howls had aroused neighbors, who asked a police investigation. When pulled out by the chief, the animal was near exhaustion.

ORIENTAL POLITICS IS WEDNESDAY MEETING TOPIC

The current events section of the Woman's club will hold its usual fortnightly meeting next Wednesday morning at 10:30, in the assembly room at Pine Inn. Continuing her review of politics in the Orient, Mrs. Lawrence Knox, the chairman, will discuss "Treaty Right in Manchuria."

The bridge section will meet Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pine Inn for the usual game and tea.

ANOTHER DOG DEAD

Death of another dog, victim of poison, was reported to the police Thursday by the owner, Miss Virginia Williams, Eighth and Mountain View.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Porter Robinson of Burlingame were in Carmel for several days this week.

Mrs. Robert Dickinson spent last week-end in Oakland, visiting her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Begley of San Francisco are honeymooning this week at Pine Inn.

particularly precious to Heifetz since it is intimately bound up with his career. When he first came to New York it was lent to him by a private family to use as long as he wanted. Just as soon as the young man had the means, he bought it and has used it ever since.

Of the art of Heifetz critics and musicians have written so much and so generously that there is little more to be said. One thing stands out, however, as an indisputable fact, and that is that a Heifetz concert is the event of a life-time. It is an experience in perfection; the very highest beauty, the most flawless technique, the miraculous accomplishment of the almost impossible.

The distinguished critic, Lawrence Gilman, wrote of Heifetz, "There is in this musician's art no sediment or excess. It has occasionally what seems almost like the ultimate touch, within its province and its control, of fine-grained loveliness and rectitude. It has genius, and it has felicity—those qualities which are so seldom harmoniously allied. It is as to realize that music is sometimes as verse is always, 'not the thing said, but a way of saying it.'"

It is expected that all will realize that the Heifetz concert in the Sunset school auditorium next Monday night, Feb. 24 will draw its audience from far and near, and that in order not to be disappointed tickets should be procured as early as possible from the Carmel Music Society, telephone 62 or Box 1144.

Mrs. C. C. Connell is spending a month at Pine Inn. Her home is in Lisbon, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wehrhane have left for Phoenix, expecting to remain for a month.
